08h15: Upon arrival Hoi An Ancient Town: Hoi An where was once a thriving international trading port, and a meeting place of trading ships of Japan, China and the West during the 17th and 18th century. Before this period, there was here also traces of Champa port which was known as a site on Silk Road along the sea. 19th century, due to water transport here is no longer convenient, Hoi An marketing port degraded, giving way to Da Nang when it is being built by the French. Hoi An thankfully not destroyed during the two wars and avoid the massive urbanization in the late 20th century. Beginning in the 1980s, the value of architecture and culture of the ancient town of Hoi An is gradually noticed that this place gradually become an attractive tourist destination in Vietnam. Ancient town of Hoi An today is a special case of the traditional market port in Southeast Asia is preserved and thoughtful. Most houses here are of traditional architecture dating from the 17th to the 19th century, are distributed along the narrow main streets. Interspersed between the houses, there are the religious and beliefs structures, demonstrating the process of formation, development and decline of urban areas. Hoi An was also recorded as a land mark of the acculturation. The assembly halls, temples which had some tracks of Chinese, located inside the traditional house of the Vietnamese people and houses with French colonial style. Besides the cultural values through the buildings, Hoi An still preserves a diverse and abundant non-material culture. Daily lives of residents in the ancient town with traditions, religious life, folk arts, cultural festivals have been preserved and developed.

11h30: Have lunch at Lang Lua restaurant with specialties of the people of Hoi An, Quang Nam.
